Diversity and Globalization Conference to be Held at The University of Scranton

The University of Scranton will hold its first bi-annual Diversity and Globalization Conference on November 1, 2002. The theme of the conference is "Education for Justice: Developing Strategies to Build a Richly Diverse Community." Conference Sponsors join representatives from The University of Scranton for a planning meeting. Seated, from left: Linda Trompetter, Ph.D. , president, Northeastern Pennsylvania Diversity Education Consortium; Jo Ann Usry, director, the Office of Equity and Diversity at The University of Scranton; Gavin Cerco, vice president of operations, Prudential Financial. Standing from left: Joseph M. McShane, S.J., University of Scranton President; Glenn R. Pellino, executive director, Urban and Governmental Affairs at the university, and president of the board, Scranton Tomorrow; Arthur Breese, director, Northeastern Pennsylvania Diversity Education Consortium; Kate Germershausen, program coordinator, Northeast Pennsylvania Area Health Education Center; Christine Catalano, employee representative, Wegmans; and Margaret McNulty, director, corporate and foundation relations at The University of Scranton. Missing from the photo is a representative of conference sponsor AXA foundation.

Registration is required and conference seating is limited. The cost of the conference is $35 per person with group discounts available. For information or registration, contact The University of Scranton, Office of Equity and Diversity, (570) 941-6645, or register on-line at www.scranton.edu/diversity.

The conference will conclude with a networking reception at 5 p.m. and a free concert by The University of Scranton Jazz Ensemble, which is open to the public, at 7:30 p.m. in the Houlihan-McLean Center. The concert entitled "The Duke and the Count" will feature the music of Duke Ellington and Count Basie. For additional information about the concert, contact Cheryl Y. Boga, director of Performance Music, at 941-7624, or at www.scranton.edu/music.
